

| Find a suitable place to install

This is a freestanding unit, not designed for built-in installation. If placing this unit in an enclosed space, ensure there is a ventilation opening of at least 2 inches on both sides, as well as between the back of the unit and the wall behind.

Ignoring this requirement will cause the compressor to overrun daily, eventually leading to its failure.*

